

Brief Biography

Jas is an American author who writes Fictional Stories.

He was born in La Jolla, California.

He is a Charter Member of the Baby Boomer Generation.

He matriculated at the University of California and graduated with an English degree from San Diego State University.

He served in the Marine Corps Reserve as an enlisted man—he refused enticements to become a Marine Officer.

He graduated from a small law school in June 1973, took and passed the bar examination, and was sworn into the practice of law December 1973, by the Honorable Earl B. Gilliam. He retired several years ago after two and ½ score years practicing criminal and civil litigation in California.

He lives in a quiet village in Southern California.

He enjoys water sports and writing fictional stories that he likes to read out loud with his friends.

His favorite story is Wm Shakespeare's Hamlet.

